A French Man of War has taken a Ship of Zealand call'd the Walcheren after a long Fight, and carried her into Thoulon, where the Count de Thoulouze with several Sea Officers is expected, to take upon him the Command of the Squadron lying ready there; and which 'tis said will consist of 32 Capital Ships of War, and 15 Frigates: They add that Monsieur Pointy is to come thither from the Ocean.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 26.

Nancy, July 18. We have receiv'd the following News from France, Nismes, July 6. Monsieur de Salgas is sent to the Galleys, several of them being arriv'd from Marseilles in the Port of Certe. To day 2 Gentlemen were put to Death here; one of them was nam'd Monsieur de Bouvil, the other la Robe; The former who had serv'd some years in the Guards du Corps, and was a young handsom Man, dyed a Catholick; but the other dyed a true Protestant, rejecting the Exhortations of the Priests that accompanied him to his Execution. A certain Camisard, commonly call'd San quartier, was taken and brought into Alets on the 26th of last Month; when he was brought in a Surgeon who was sent for to look to his Wounds, finding them Mortal, acquainted the Bishop of Alets with it; the Bishop visited him in Person, and the dying Man nam'd several Persons of this City and Ulez that had furnish'd the Malecontents with Ammunition and Provisions; he also discover'd a Place where Powder was made for the Camisards, which being search'd 3 Men were found at Work in it. The Marshal de Montrevel propos'd to reside here for some time, but some Advices have oblig'd him to march towards St. Esprit with a great Number of Troops. Some say he is gone on an Expedition; others, that 'tis only to dispose his Troops along the Rhone and the adjacent Country, the better to secure the Roads to the Fair of Beaucaire, that People may go and come thither with their Goods in Safety.

From the Harlem Courant, dated July 28.

Nancy, July 20. They tell us from Paris that the King is dissatisfied with the Conduct of the Duke de Vendome in Italy: That the Malecontents in the Sevens have burnt 2 Churches near Nismes; and that 2 Barks with armed Men in them came up lately to Pont St. Esprit; one of which was seiz'd, the other escap'd and landed her Men in the Vivarez. Two Forreigners have been seiz'd at Pont St. Esprit, who came thither with design to get into the Sevens and joyn the Camisards.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated July 26.

Letters from Mantua of the 30th past, tell us, that the French were drawing a Line the better to cover the Cremonese from the Excursions of the Imperial Hussars; that there was a Report that a Detachment of Irish had some where fallen upon a Party of 400 Hussars, and routed them, with the loss of 80 Men: That 4 heavy Pieces of Cannon were lately sent to the Blockade of Bersello, with a great quantity of Ammunitions and a Reinforcement of 1500 Men: And that there were arriv'd at San Benedetto from Cremona, several Barks laden with Artillery, Bombs, and Ammunition; which makes it presum'd the French intend to besiege some Place.

Venice, July 6. General Vaubonne, who lately advanc'd towards the Frontiers of Trent with a strong Detachment of Imperialists, on Advice that the Bavarians had invaded Tyrol has sent 3500 of his Men to Succour that Country.

Paris, July 13. By the Post from Italy we receiv'd Advice, that no Detachment is yet made to joyn the Bavarians in Tyrol, it not being thought advisable at this juncture to weaken the Army of the 2 Crowns, seeing there is a doubt at present that some of the States of Italy may enter into the Grand Alliance against us. Since that Post arriv'd, an Express is come to Court from the Duke de Vendome, with Advice that the Elector of Bavaria had signified to him, that he expected with the utmost Impatience a Detachment from him: But that he (the Duke) judg'd it impossible to joyn the Bavarian, because General Vaubonne with a Detachment of Imperialists, was posted in the Straits in the Mountains on the edge of Tyrol.

Lorrain, July 20. Letters from the French Army in Italy say, that there was a talk of sending 24 Battalions and 22 Squadrons towards Tirol to joyn the the Bavarians, and that the Duke de Vendome with other Troops, would see them into the Trentin.

Some Advices from Paris of the 16th, that came by the Neutral Countries tell us, that the Duke de Vendome has intirely quitted the Territories of the Pope and of the Republick of Venice, and is return'd with his Troops into the Mantuan; That General Albergotti had caus'd to be brought from Modena to his Camp at Buon-Porto 13 Pieces of heavy Cannon, and 150 Waggons loaded with Ammunition; And that the Imperialists have abandon'd Final in the Modeneze after having raz'd the Fortifications.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated July 26.

Amsterdam, July 26. We have at length receiv'd Letters from Italy by the Post from Vienna, by which we learn that the Duke of Vendome has made no Attempt on the Imperialists, and that he is return'd towards the Mantuan by Isola della Scala and Noghera. No sooner had he quitted the Venetian Territories, but the Hussars came down the Adige from Pescantina to continue their Excursions; and General Vaubonne who remain'd posted at Rivoli, detach'd 1000 Men to take Possession of a very narrow Passage on the Borders of the Country of Tyrol, in order to hinder the Bavarians from marching into the Trentin. The Imperialists have taken a new Route to send Succours to their Army, where were suddenly expected 3000 Men, with a great Number of Horses. As for the Situation of the Armies, they tell us, that the Duke de Vendome is with a Body of Troops in the Mantuan; General Albergotti who is reinforc'd to the Number of 7000 Men, is posted at Buonporto, and is making Preparations as if he design'd to attack Mirandola; The Prince Prince de Vaudemont is encamp'd at San Benedetto, and the Grand Prior at Bondanella. On the other side, General Staremberg is posted along the Secchia to observe the Enemy; the young Prince de Vaudemont is with a Body of Horse on the side of Mirandola, ready to receive the Enemy; and another Body of Troops is posted at Concordia, where they have thrown up Retrenchments.

The Supplement publish'd to yesterday's Courant, gave account of the Motions of the Armies in Flanders.
